Our teams and what they do

Project Delivery Practice

The Atkins UK Infrastructure Project Delivery Practice is the centre of excellence for the delivery of infrastructure projects and the home for our project management staff. The team is responsible for delivery of design services across our Markets of Water Infrastructure, Defence Infrastructure, Aviation, Energy, Stations and Urban Developments. Our clients include, Berkeley Homes, BAE Systems, Defence Infrastructure Organisation, EDF, Environment Agency, Foreign & Commonwealth Development Office, Government Property Agency, Heathrow Airport, High Speed 2, Neom, United Utilities, Scottish Water, Sellafield, Seven Trent Water, Transport for London and major contractors.

As a Graduate Project Manager, you'll be responsible for supporting the delivery of multi-disciplinary projects from concept through to construction, on our expanding portfolio of the biggest and most challenging projects in the UK.

Day to day responsibilities include:

- Developing solutions to our clients' complex problems
- Interfacing with internal clients such as the design team and project support functions.
- Interfacing with external stakeholders such as client organisations, our delivery partners and our supply chains.
- Gaining an understanding of and complying with our company processes and procedures.
- Monitoring of project performance and reporting of that to both internal management and client organisations using tools such as earned value management.
- You could also be tasked with leading and coordinating high quality, industry-leading bids.

Our interesting and varied pipeline of work will allow you to develop quickly, backed by a well-established and strong network to support your professional development.

We work collaboratively often across many locations, so you'll be involved in projects with colleagues from a variety of backgrounds and cultures. As Atkins is a global company there may be opportunities for overseas working.

Locations for this business will include:

Birmingham, Bristol, Epsom (Surrey), Glasgow, London, Warrington
